Education

3/2022 Harvard Negotiation and Leadership Executive Program

Harvard University, United States

The Program aims to broaden understanding of negotiating concepts, acquire proven techniques, and then put learning into practice. Through negotiation exercises and interactive discussions, participants examine ways to structure the bargaining process to accommodate joint problem solving, brainstorming, and collaborative fact-finding. These frameworks help create smarter negotiation conditions, make more strategic decisions, and leave the bargaining table with improved outcomes.

7/2016 Singularity Executive Program in Exponential Technologies

Singularity University, United States

The SU Executive Program is a week-long immersive course in Silicon Valley that examines how key converging technologies will shape our future and explores ethical leadership in a world of rapid change. World-class experts deliver interactive presentations in an immersive classroom setting, paired with insightful discussions and activities that leverage the diverse cohort of thought leaders and innovators we convene for each session. Participants also experience technology first-hand and Silicon Valley's "maker" culture through SU's iLab and off-campus visits.
